YVBSG Events For Your Diary

Conference Review Day in Burnsall and Thorpe

Sunday 21 September 2008

A meeting to draw together and review the information gathered during this year's recording conference. The morning session will comprise presentations on the buildings recorded on 17 May 2008, to be held in Burnsall Grammar School (dated 1602) starting at 10am. Whether or not you attended in May, you are invited to attend in this splendid building!

In the afternoon there will be a walk round the delightful nearby village of Thorpe to see an array of seventeenth and eighteenth century buildings, starting at 2pm.

If you'd like to come, please contact Malcolm Birdsall (contact details on back page). Places are limited and there will be a nominal charge to cover the cost of the hire of the school. You will need to make your own arrangements for lunch: if you would like to eat at the Red Lion in Burnsall, please let Malcolm know so that we can give them an idea of numbers beforehand.

An Idle Recording Day

All members, new or experienced, are invited to come along – please contact Tish Lawson, telephone 01274 586644, email mikeandtish@hotmail.co.uk. Tish will provide finalised details nearer the time.

Tour of York House, Malton, and Talk on Recording Techniques

Saturday 25 October 2008

YVBSG members attending a Ryedale Heritage Day in Malton in June were very impressed by a tour of York House and a talk on building recording techniques. So, we thought, why not invite the contributors to repeat this for the YVBSG? What an excellent idea! Nigel Copsey (www.nigelcopsey.com) and Alex Holton (<http://holton.alex.googlepages.com>) have kindly agreed to lead the event for us. York House is an exceptional building undergoing restoration, showing much of the c1684 build but also earlier phases of construction. Much to see and discuss. More information at www.york.ac.uk/depts/arch/Wolds/malton.html.

Programme:

- 13:15 Meet at York House, 41 Yorkersgate, Malton (SE 7851 7158)
- 13:30 Introduction, followed by tour of York House with Nigel Copsey
- 15:00 Break
- 15:30 Talk on Recording Techniques and Case Studies, with particular emphasis on stone buildings, by Alex Holton
- 16:15 Questions and Discussion
- 16:30 Close

Malton has good bus and rail connections. Trains run between York and Scarborough, calling at Malton. For more information see www.northyorkstravel.info.

Thank you!

Our thanks go to Malcolm Birdsall for all his hard work in organising an excellent recording conference in Burnsall and Thorpe in May. We look forward to hearing about the building surveys at the Review Day in September!

Thanks are also due to Barry Harrison for leading a most enjoyable walk around Thornton-le-Dale on a somewhat breezy day in June. Highlights included an interior viewing of Cruck Cottage in Maltongate, with its crucks recently dated to 1512 as reported in the last Newsheet, and its hearth typical of the area with heck post and fire window.

In July the Group ran an introductory/training day on recording buildings, held at King's Manor, York, in conjunction with the Greater York Community Archaeology Project. Thanks are due to David Cook and Tony Tolhurst for giving talks and to Tony Berry for assisting with the practical recording session. The day was well received by participants and we hope to arrange a follow-up session next year.

A Yorkshire building rescued

There is hope for a longstanding entry on English Heritage's Buildings at Risk Register, the fifteenth century Bolton Percy Gatehouse, near York. Built in 1467 by Thomas Pearson, a yeoman's son, the Grade II* gatehouse is a two-storey timber-framed building. It was partly repaired in 1972, but the south west end has collapsed. Owned by the Bolton Percy Gatehouse Trust, a provisional agreement has been struck to lease the property to The Vivat Trust, who plan to restore it and let it as a holiday cottage. The aim is to give the building a viable future, which preserves both its ancient fabric and retains public access.

Exhibition highly recommended!

In the last Newsheet we mentioned an exhibition on Farming Life and Farmsteads in the Forest of Bowland at the Museum of North Craven Life at The Folly, Settle. Designed by the Heritage Trust for the North West, the display features the work of Slaidburn Village Archive and the YVBSG who have visited and recorded the history of a number of farm buildings in the vicinity of the Hodder Valley. Several YVBSG members have now seen the exhibition and thoroughly recommend a visit. Normally open 10.30am to 4.30pm on Tuesdays, Saturdays, Sundays and Bank Holiday Mondays until the end of October 2008. Enquiries: 015242 51388 or 01729 822361 or see www.ncbpt.org.uk/folly/exhibitions/exhibitions_2008/.

Websites worth watching

Yorkshire Dales National Park Feature of the Season

www.yorkshiredales.org.uk/fos

Feature of the Season (FoS) is a project designed to enhance our understanding of historic features within the Yorkshire Dales National Park. It aims, with considerable help from the Dales Volunteers, to find unrecorded historic features ranging from unusual gate posts, troughs and churn stands to turbary stones and stock underpasses. Also included are hennery-piggeries, and the website includes descriptions and photographs of examples of this type of dual-purpose building where the pigs would be housed on the ground floor, with the hens kept in a loft overhead. Side-by-side forms are also known; it was thought that the hens would keep the pigs warm while the pigs frightened away predators such as foxes.

Weather walls

From time to time, including at Slaidburn in 2007, we have noticed the occurrence of weather walls – an additional wall built on to the gable end of a house forming a double skin, seemingly to offer protection from the worst of the weather. Kevin Illingworth now writes:

I have seen yet another weather wall. This is at Town End Farm, Airton (farm shop and tea room). The wall is eighteen inches thick with an eighteen-inch gap between it and the original seventeenth century gable wall. There are now at least eleven of these known in North Craven and Bowland. Are they peculiar to this area, or do they occur elsewhere? Sometimes they go unnoticed, but when they are known they become lost in the small print of a survey or listed building description.

Some new and forthcoming publications

Tadcaster Pubs – A Brief History by Tadcaster Historical Society. This new illustrated booklet contains lots of interesting historical information, together with old photographs of pubs and brewing, ale houses, tipplers' houses, inns and taverns as well as the beer sold, in an era when Tadcaster had around eighty pubs. Available from Ian Page, telephone 01937 835327.

Barns of the Dales by Andy Singleton and David Joy. Due to be published October 2008 by Great Northern Books Ltd, Ilkley, telephone 01274 735056, web www.gnbooks.co.uk. Hardback, 128 pages, ISBN 1905080190, £16.99. Thousands of barns are scattered throughout the Yorkshire Dales and make the landscape like no other. This book falls into two distinct halves, representing the diverse interests of its authors. David Joy comes from Upper Wharfedale farming stock and knows many individual barns at first hand. He writes about their rise and decline, and portrays a year in the life of a typical barn before farming practices changed out of all recognition. He also provides a profile of each barn on the Wharfedale farm that he owns. Andy Singleton, a builder in the Dales, has worked on many barns. He takes up the story by covering the construction methods and materials used, and explains how barns can be converted into dwellings. The practical information is complemented by case studies.
